“Comfort Women,” a euphemism for sexual slaves, were taken by the Japanese Army in occupied territories before and during the war. “Comfort Women” can be taught as an example of institutionalized sexual slavery, and one of the largest cases of human trafficking in the twentieth century; estimates on the total number of comfort women vary, but most argue that hundreds of thousands of women were forced into these situations during Japanese occupation.

A $30 million US Government Study specifically searched for evidence on comfort women allegations. The final IWG report to Congress was issued in 2007. (Linked below)

At the time, Korea was actually part of Japan. roughly in that Puerto Rico is part of the USA.

During the war, Korea had a population about 23 million. Today, Texas has a population of about 26 million.

Imagine trying to kidnap 200,000 Texas women.

Any serious military or business person can see the folly in common sense of kidnapping 200,000 women. It does NOT make sense, and would have created a new war in Korea.

And back to Korean men. so are we to believe that Korean men that nobody lifted a hand to defend their women ? so what really happened ? It is clear from source documents, and the common sense that there was NO mass kidnapping.

It's all a lie.

Please read the IWG report that practically nobody seems to know exists.

If you do not have time for the whole report, do a search inside the report for Comfort Women, and carefully read those parts.
